WICKY LEAKS

Birthday wishes to Courtney Rose, Rowan Bird, Darcy McDougall, Michael Simpson, Stuart White, Jessica White, Hazel Wilson, Jody Matthews.

Cyril and Jean O'Brien have returned from a whirlwind weekend when they travelled with son Graham to Bendigo. The purpose was to watch grandson Callum - shearing and granddaughter Kymberlee - wool handling representing WA in the Australian shearing Championships. It was an extremely well run and organised event where 2,000 sheep were shorn over 2 days. Kymberlee reached the semi-finals of her event, and the team very narrowly missed the finals.

Cyril and Jean were very tired and could not keep up with all the social part of the weekend but everyone was very proud of the W A team and the manner in which they competed.

The juniors in the event came from Cunderdin Agricultural College.

A very big CONGRATULATIONS to the staff of the CRC on the extremely well run Regatta Day at Yealering. The down side of the day was of course the wind - but hey without the wind there would have been mosquitoes. A very small crew and a big day.

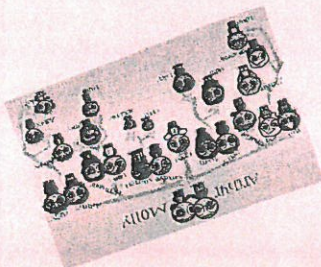

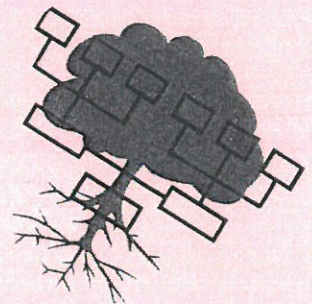

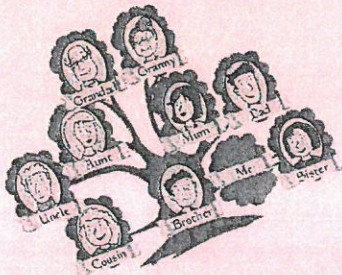

A reminder that the hairdresser, Marissa, will not be travelling to Wickepin until further notice. Please see notice inside this publication.

Over 50's do not forget to support the CRC this Friday for their Seniors' Week lunch.

THE THRILL OF THE TRACE ©

Maxine L. McIlvenie

Have you ever researched your family tree
Or tried to compile your pedigree?
Where do you start? What can you do?
If you don't know how, just start with you,
Then your Mum and Dad and so on back
And mind you never get off the track.
There are names like yours, so check the date.
You really need to concentrate.
Certificates, records and photos too,
Family memories provide a clue.
Newspapers, ships, a passenger list
Or help from a genealogist.
Faded letters, an ancient will
With possibly even a codicil.
All these and more can help your quest.
Perhaps you'll find a family crest
Or back in pioneering days
A convict banished to mend his ways.
Your family history to be learned,
It's best to leave no stone unturned,
The time and effort it always takes
Pays off to be sure of no mistakes,
For it's not much comfort as you'll agree
To get it all wrong in your family tree.
So get yourself started and don't be afraid,
There's deep satisfaction with progress made
From records of marriages, death or a birth;
The details can lead to the ends of the earth.
You have to go on and when all's said and done,
It's the thrill of the trace that brings all the fun.

LAKE YEALERING REGATTA & MARKET DAY

SATURDAY 28 OCTOBER 2017

Saturday started as a very overcast and blustery day, we hoped dearly it would not rain. But as the Market Stall holders slowly started to arrive and all these amazing creative Regatta boats pulled in to the Lake, the clouds started to part ways and let the sun through.

The wonderful smell of freshly cooked donuts didn't take long to fill the area, along with the brewing coffee right next door. There were stalls aplenty with a fantastic array of goods for the young and old. Thankfully the wind didn't blow everyone away but the creativity and enthusiasm of the Regatta Boat participants certainly did.

We were very privileged to have Allan from Triple M Great Southern commentate the three Regatta Boat Races for us and getting the crowd involved throughout the races.

We had 7 boats in the 10 & Under division, with some great costumes, boat designs and sportsmanship. Stretton Scrap Heap manned by Adam & Sophie Jespersen came away with the race win.

The 16 & Under division had to battle the wind once they reached the end of the jetty to try and get their boats back to shore, with 6 boats in this race not all made it to the finish with the weed catching a boat and the wind another. Jack & Hamish Collins were the race winners.

The Open division saw a fantastic 15 boats make an appearance and the craftsmanship that had gone into some of these boats was ingenious. This was topped with the costumes that went with these boats. Once everyone was finally along the shore they were off and racing, once all the water and flour bombs had been thrown that is...

This race was a little more treacherous as these boats had to venture into open waters, not only battling the other boats but the wind and water current also. The Ducks Nuts boat flipped before even making it out of the swimming area but the two oldest boats in the race fought all the way and Cartoppa came out the victor manned by Craig & Peter Jespersen.

With the majority of the crowd making great use of the Yealering Progress' hot food on sale there weren't too many hungry tummies around and the children had a marvellous choice of goodies put on by the Yealering P&C.

Games of Yester Year were held later that afternoon on the oval, with a slow start to the games the enticement of free chocolate was offered and people turned up from everywhere.

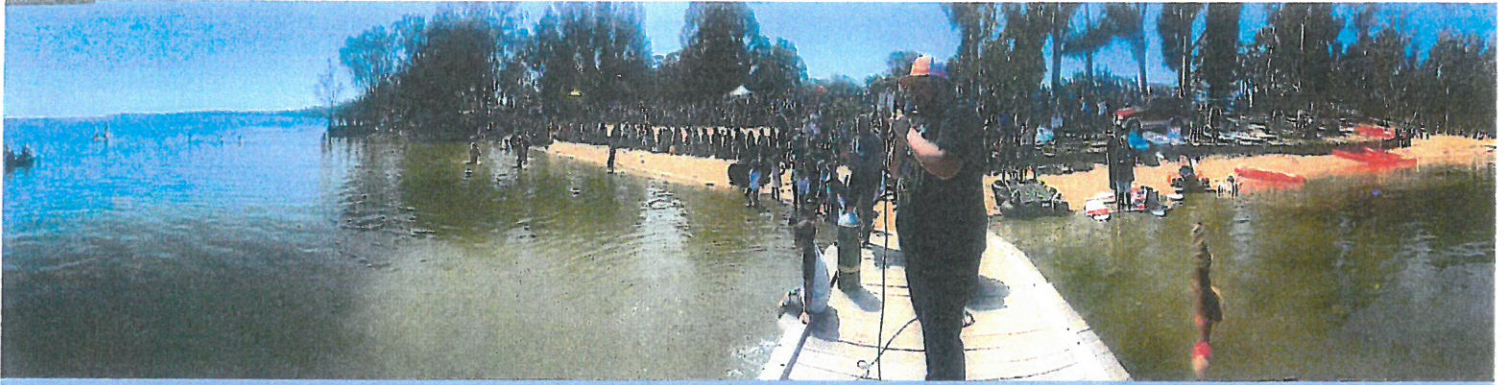

We had many three legged races which offered up some good laughs and a bit of competition, this followed on with the Tug of War. A lot of strategy was used in these games and we were lucky enough to have our local Policemen join for one game. The Sack races were a massive hit with the children and they were extremely good at it too. Our last game for the afternoon was Egg & Spoon races, these always make for good fun.

A beautiful spit roast lamb and salad tea was offered at the hall in the early evening before everyone headed to the oval edge to watch the magnificent fireworks display. The Tinny Band then played into the night to top off what had been a great day out in Yealering. Thank you everyone who came and enjoyed the day, without you these days wouldn't be a success.

Carriages Drivers' Thank You to the Town of Wickepin

Avon & Hills Carriage Driving Club extend a big and sincere thank you to the People and Shire of Wickepin for again hosting their annual Albert Facey Memorial Pleasure Drive on the weekend of 14 – 15 October. “We were so pleased to be able to coincide our drive with the 100th Anniversary of the “The First Grand Spring Horticultural Show and Industrial Exhibition”, said Club President Marilyn Piper.

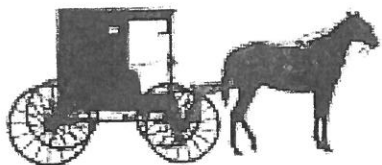

15 Carriage Drivers, ponies and horses from as far north as Clackline and south as far as Karridale gathered together for the three day pleasure drive over a course of around 50kms. Wickepin offers clubs the advantage of being just three hours drive from WA's four carriage driving clubs at Albany, Dwellingup, Perth and Northam. The drivers continue to be impressed with Wickepin as it has an amazing array of wildflowers, many scenic routes and pioneer tracks suitable for carriage driving, as well as a most friendly and welcoming township with great public facilities.

Highlights of the weekend included the Wickepin Town Drive, Street Parade and Presentation on Saturday, with lunch at Facey Homestead, culminating in a BBQ and Dance at the Community Centre. The Community Centre was decorated to reflect Showing of Agricultural Achievements over the past 100 years. The historic exhibits were provided by Ray and Helen Lewis from Lewisdale Merino Poll Stud as well as several other Wickepin families. Frank Heffernan gave an entertaining historical overview of the Wickepin Show through the 50s and 60s. Frank Bird, long time identity of the town also related his memories of the “Wicky Show”. Ray Lewis reflected on his first show entry at the age of 6 with two “mongrel chooks”. Ray and Helen Lewis also sponsored a children's free BBQ, show bags as well as a clown and DJ to entertain. The dinner was attended by 96 local residents and carriage drivers, with 50 children enjoying an early sausage sizzle celebration. Sunday consisted of a 35 km return drive through country lanes, paddocks and roads to Tarling Reserve for a picnic lunch.

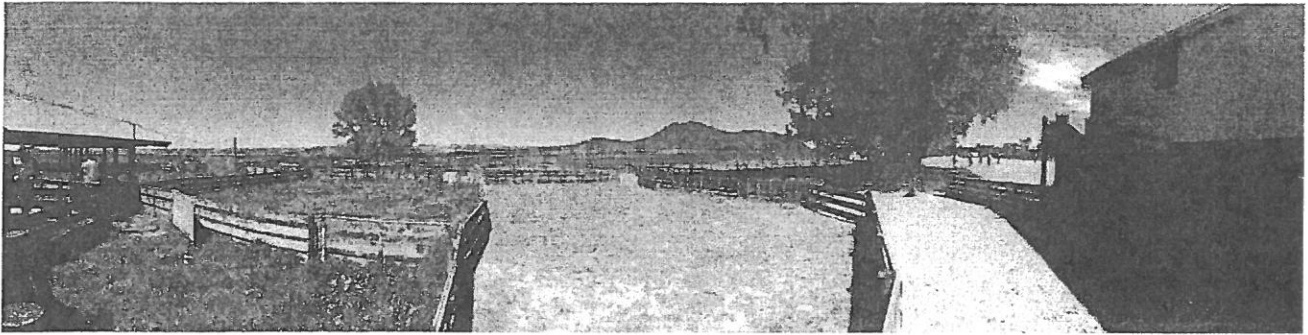

This is the third event of this nature held by Avon & Hills Carriage Driving Club at Wickepin and they continue to be overwhelmed by the welcoming, generous nature of the town. Local farmers, John Brown, Trevor Leeson and Jake Martin loaned yards for the ponies. Conrad Flavel, and Michael Green allowed use of paddocks, with Tim Cowcher offering a secure yard for ponies at the lunch stop on Saturday and the golf club allowing access to the course. Thank you to Barry Corke for his fine photography.

Mark Hook CEO, Lee Parker CDO, Peter Vlahov Manager of Works, and his fabulous team have again made our visit possible and memorable. Thanks to all of you.

ACROSS THE DITCH

Precision Agriculture Tour WA to NZ

Author: Sarah Hyde, Executive Officer - Facey Group

A week full of inspiration, challenge, thought provoking, exhausting, networking, fun and work (of course) was had on a truly remarkable study tour to New Zealand, North Island from the 15th - 21st October. The group was made up of WA producers, researchers, consultants and extension delivers and a few east coasters and MLA representatives.

To kick off the week we attended The International Tri-Conference for Precision Agriculture in 2017 in Hamilton. The conference encompassed a range of speakers in the precision agriculture space from new research being undertaken to the practical on farm use from all over the world. There is a lot of preliminary research being undertaken in this space with plenty of thought provoking on how different technologies can be utilised and tested within the agricultural space - an area to keep up to date with and revisit to see where the fit may be for us locally in the future. A reflection and demonstration of how technologies are being used on farm and within systems was also a key take away message for the group, with many technologies already available but under utilised, giving many thoughts to how we could possible use our data better and manage things.

From the conference rooms we stretched our legs and headed to the Gallagher Head Office based in Hamilton. This company was truly inspiring with complete investment from all the staff and a real sense of pride. We toured the facilities and were able to gain insight into the production line of products that we see upon shelves in our local retailers stores. It was impressive to see the culture of this organisation and the fact that they manufacture locally rather than outsourcing overseas. A few great tools were sighted along the way for livestock management which I think would be great to utilise in WA for grazing and monitoring of stock.

We met with AgFirst - Agriculture and Horticulture Farm Consultant Network representatives and discussed the organisation and services as New Zealand's largest network of consultants across the primary industry. Farm IQ demonstrated their farm management program and initiated discussions on how this could potentially be adopted in Australia and linkage options to other farm management software and apps. To finish out the day we were presented to by Beef and Lamb New Zealand (think similar to MLA for us in Australia) and discussed the structure and role within the New Zealand livestock industry.

The bus then became our friend, up steep hills and along winding roads to the next destination of Landcorp Farms (Wairakei Estate and Aratiatia Station) between Taupo and Rotorua. Landcorp Farms is a government owned organisation with land leased from independents. Across the two farms we were shown the systems and integration of precision agriculture for management and reporting. This visit enlightened us to the traceability of dairy cattle for the management of health, mating and production with collar tracking and also explored the options of genetics for the reduction of nitrates. We toured the Aratiatia Station and looked at the management of the farm through pasture management and livestock production and monitoring.

From here we travelled to Napier and met with Atkins Ranch, Maori representative and Nuffield Scholar. Atkins Ranch took us through their journey as a family owned business supplying grass fed products to markets globally. Shane Walker provided us with an insight to Maori culture and took us on the journey of plans ahead. Nuffield Scholar Sam Long presented his project around sustainability in farming systems around the world through Regenerative Farming.

On our final day of touring we headed farmers in Palmerston North, along the Rangatangi river who have integrated cereals, horticulture and livestock production. We toured the farm and explored the management structure of the business with a board setup and the integral part of understanding all aspects of the business from finance to operations. Following this we met with Massey University representative and were presented with information around Big Data for the beef and dairy industry in New Zealand. We were shown the different precision agriculture tools that are currently being utilised and options for looking into hyperspectral imaging and other traceability options.

MYFARM concluded our visits, an investment organisation matching investors to the agricultural industry of New Zealand, with potential for the movements of the family buying out investors over time and we challenged the thoughts as to how this structure may fit within Australia for the succession of farms or for those that are moving into the agricultural space.

A huge thank you must go to Erin Gorter, who instigated the tour and for the organising behind the scenes and to MLA Donor Company who supported the tour for industry in WA. But last and not least I must thank the Facey Group for the support and encouragement to attend this tour.

I believe there are so many opportunities that can be explored and through the friendships and networks that we have all established from a week in each other's pockets we really are inspired to ensure that livestock in WA and Australia can benefit from such a dynamic industry. Let's just say we all agreed that this is not the end of tour, so watch this space, because the inspiration and dedication to ensure we do something for this industry locally was prominent and I am determined that there are some amazing opportunities ahead for us all.

If you are ever given an opportunity like this, take it - step out of your comfort zone and go and explore....it will open up a world of opportunities, a network you may not have had before and the desire to deliver to the industry that keeps us all ticking everyday.

Jack Chance organised the Sunshine Concert party comprising of local talent. Performances were held at Yealering and Kulin as well as locally. We went to balls and dances as far apart as Corrigin and Toolibin, generally in one of the school buses. One owned by Sammay Sansalone, took a crowd out to Toolibin one night after there had been quite a bit of rain in the area and the bus got bogged on the way home. I can still remember Sammy telling all in his best English. 'The bus – She no go! Bitumen roads, apart from the main street in Wickepin had yet to appear and it took a lot of pushing and wet get to get the bus moving.

THE NIGHTMARE ©

I had a dream the other night about a garden grand,
 With vegies, flowers and luscious fruit; a showpiece in the land,
 But the dream became a nightmare, for the acreage was large
 And someone who had no idea had said I was in charge.
 Now at gardening I'm a failure; it's a case of hit or miss.
 If seedlings die, well that's too bad, but if they live it's bliss.
 In my dream I bought a pot-plant and put it in the ground,
 Then watered it so often that the poor thing nearly drowned.
 There were aphids on the roses, while grubs attacked a vine.
 There's no doubt in my nightmare the pests were doing fine.
 The snails were getting fatter, there were beetles in the lawn
 And something quite peculiar had happened to the corn;
 Its hair was looking straggly, while worms consumed the cobs
 And branches on the fruit trees had funny little knobs.
 It was then the nightmare worsened as everything went black,
 'Cause the owner with an evil smile had given me the sack.
 But it didn't really matter. It was just a ghastly joke,
 For the nightmare then just vanished when I came to and awoke.
 P'raps it's best to take up painting; be an artist if I can
 And create some flowers on canvas for it seems a better plan.
 Then the blooms will last forever, pests and weeds will never be:
 An everlasting garden and one that's nightmare free.

NEW BOOKS

ADULT FICTION - AUDIO

With floods threatening both the town of Kingsmarkham and his own home and no end to the rain in sight, Chief Inspector Wexford already had his hands full when he learns that two local teenagers have gone missing along with their sitter, Joanna Troy. Their hysterical mother is convinced that all three have drowned and as the hours stretch into days Wexford suspects a case of kidnapping.

JUNIOR FICTION - DVD

It's the eve of Princess Rose's 18th birthday. Everyone in the kingdom has come to Fantabularasa Castle to celebrate, including Snow White, the Seven Dwarfs, Cinderella and Red Riding Hood. But just before the stroke of midnight, Bobo the youngest dwarf, accidentally pricks the finger of Princess Rose (a.k.a. Sleeping Beauty) with a cursed needle and sends the kingdom into a century-long slumber! To find Rose's true love Jack, who will save her with a kiss, Bobo and the other six dwarfs must go on a treacherous journey.

ADULT FICTION

As a regular volunteer at North Dawkins Elementary, Ellie would never miss the annual Mother's Day breakfast - even if she has to tolerate the like of Gabrielle Matheson. The rivals aren't exactly sworn enemies, although Ellie still thinks there's only room for one professional organizer in their small Georgia town. But when Ellie sees Gabrielle in the hallway, she's a mess. It looks like Gabrielle's seen a ghost - or, as she explains, a dead body in the supply closet. Before Ellie can get help the body vanishes....only to mysteriously reappear later at the school.
